

Heritage® River Birch

Betula nigra 'Cully'

Voted Urban Tree of the year in 2002

A superior form of River Birch. Much lighter bark color, glossy, dark green foliage and vigorous, robust growth habit.

Resistant to bronze birch borer.

Grows to a height of 45-50 feet and spread of 30-40 feet. The head of the tree is oval or pyramidal when young, while mature specimens exhibit a rounded to irregular crown.

Discovered by Earl Cully in a St. Louis suburb in the 1970s.

Cold hardy to U.S.D.A. Zone 4 (many say 3).

Since 1944
