

Red Flowering Quince

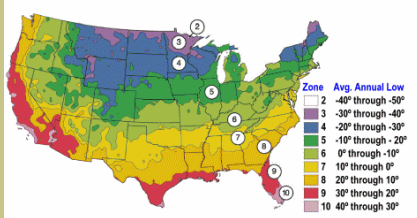

Chaenomeles speciosa sp.

Flowering Quince are prized for their early blooms in the spring - before most other plants wake up. Stems are often cut and brought indoors to bloom.

Bright red blossoms in early spring. One of the first to bloom, a veritable blaze of color followed by shiny green foliage. Attractive to birds.

Mature height is 5-6 feet with a spread of 3-5 feet.

Cold hardy to U.S.D.A. Zone 5.
